Chapter 1 by Selena Cloud

Chapter 1 ~Awakened~

..What?...

Whats going on?

What the hell...

My eyes opened up as I took in a deep breath letting all the air I had in my lungs....I looked around as my vision began more and more clearer. I narrowed my eyes slightly.

"Why the hell am I in a hotel...and what the heck am I even wearing! Im not even a trendy type of girl!" I said, raising my voice slightly as I saw my reflection in the mirror. My hair was in a ponytail, long up to the point where it touched my left shoulder. I was wearing a black tank top that only had one strap. On my legs was blue long jeans with white new shiny sneakers. Around my shoulders was red and black jacket.

"Whatever, cant do anything now.." I sighed as I looked at the mirror "Except finding the person who brought me here and took my family to god knows where

"Hello!" I yelled as I banged on the door "Can anyone hear me?! Hello?!"

No answer...

"Okay..." I mumbled turning around "Time to find a way out"

I walked around the small apartment before a small box caught my eye. I walked over to it and picked it up. I let out a small 'hmm' before opening up the small brown box, showing a silver key and a note.

'Welcome to my little game,
I think Ill called you Doll since your so cute right now in that outfit I gave you. Anyway, I have design this little maze for you and your friends. You all look totally adorbs right now since I'm watching you. Here's the key that will free you...But...you might be lucky to stay here and die peacefully then out there..hehehe...your lost...Have fun!

~Nameless

I stared at the note in shock.

Im...not the only person...and what does this mean by Im lucky if I stay here? I don't like the looks of this... Picking up the key, I slowly walked towards the door before placing it inside the keyhole. Every passing second felt like a year as I felt more and more nervous about what was on the other side. With a gulp I turned the key and I heard a click making me know that the door was unlocked. I opened the door to the sort of light hallway. It was deadly silent as I held the silver key to my apartment in my hand. On the key was the apartment number...

Apartment 25

I must be on the second floor then...My apartment might come in handy for a safe room... I thought as I walked through the hallways til I saw another box with another note. Nice, another creepy note...Something to help with my sanity...Not. I walked over to the note before I read it in my hand.

"What?" I asked myself. What did this person mean by that? Then I heard a small hiss in the distance making me turn around to see...a human like creature doing the same thing to look at me. The silver metal all around the skin. A metal body...Its black eyes staring into my soul like a lion. It opened its mouth showing its razor sharp teeth. I looked at its hands which had long razor sharp nails. It growled at me before it lunged at me making me scream at the top of my very lungs. Without thinking twice I grabbed the small box which held the gun before running off full speed with that thing behind me trying to catch up with me.

"What kind of hell is this!" I yelled as I ran through the halls with that monster hot on my tails...until I reached a dead end.

"Aw come on!" I whined as I saw its shadow come closer and closer...until its eyes landed on me once more. It growled at me as if it wanted to see me dead... I was able to open the box while running...but I dropped the box along the way. I held the gun in my hands shaking like a leaf as the creature stalked closer and closer. Without thinking another second I raised my hand with the gun and...

BAM!

I shot the creature straight through the head before it went limp and fell down. I slowly took a deep breath before I collapsed onto my knees.

"Whoa" a British voice said in surprised "You knocked out that thing pretty good"

I looked up and saw a male teenage boy in front of me. His black brownish hair, blue eyes wearing a green t-shirt with black pants and black sneakers. I felt...so dizzy...My mind was hurting from all the screaming and running...I collapsed as the boy caught me. His eyes looking at me in shock and concern.

"Hey dont go on me now! Hey!"
